Gourmet Traveller Wine

2016 Amon-Ra, 95 Points

Starts with concentrated, dark and red fruits on the nose and some glimmerings of savoury, cigar box development. The palate is firm and dry without being stern as there's good depth of fruit. Alcohol brings warmth to the finish. "A deep colour," found [Andrew] Caillard. "Fresh inky blackcurrant, blackberry aromas with aniseed liquorice notes. Plush, chocolaty wine with ripe dark berry fruits, classical chocolaty tannins, lovely richness and volume with persistency."

Nicks Wine Merchants

2016 Amon-Ra, 98 Points

This impressive Shiraz opens with an imperious inky black core and an equally deep dark purple black hue. Potent ripe blackberry, black cherry and liquorice scents fill the olfactory senses followed by some dark plum, subtly smoked vanillin cedar, confectionary and light pepper. A wine of incredible presence and size the palate is coated with a tidal wave of rich blackberry, liquorice and dark plum fruit that confidently sits over a back drop of vanillin cedar, crushed rock elements, confectionary and spicy pepper. Massively proportioned in terms of both fruit weight and tannin structure yet perfectly composed. Oppulent, slightly chewy mouthfeel concluding with an exceptionally powerful and imposing finish of blackberries, liquorice, dark plums, spicy vanillin cedar, infusions of crushed rocks and pepper.

Huon Hooke, The Real Review

2016 Amon-Ra, 94/100

Deep, dark red/purple colour; subdued but appealing. Dark chocolate-coated black cherry to dark plum. The tannins are very firm and abundant. Plenty of oak, but not overdone. A big, solid wine that will reward cellaring.

Matthew Jukes

2016 Amon-Ra, 19/20

This is a wine of outstanding refinement. Ben readily admits that the early vintages of Amon-Ra were supposed to shock international wine commentators with their scale and impact. They certainly achieved their aim, but Ben knew that Amon-Ra really needed ratcheting back and this vintage shows the results of his gradual finessing and adding of detail. Cooler and longer with beautiful balance, this is a wine which will be sure to impress all-comers as opposed to just lovers of massive Barroisan reds. Using 95% new French and 5% new American oak hogsheads this wine has swallowed this carpentry whole and it shimmers with refinement in the glass. It justifiably gains my highest ever score for this label.
