Robert Parker Wine Advocate

2015 Wallace, 91 Points

The 2015 Wallace Shiraz-Grenache is 78% Shiraz and only 22% Grenache. Gentle herbal, tea-like nuances dress up the ripe cherry fruit on the nose, while the medium to full-bodied palate ratchets up the intensity, delivering the bold fruit flavors that are a Glaetzer signature, framed by silky tannins that linger on the finish.

Vinous – Josh Raynolds

2015 Wallace, 91 Points

Opaque ruby. An array of ripe dark fruit and floral scents are accompanied by suggestions of candied licorice, cracked pepper and allspice. Sweet and seamless in texture, offering primary black raspberry and cherry flavors and a hint of candied violet. Fine-grained tannins frame a very long, juicy finish that leaves a sappy dark berry note behind.

James Halliday – Australian Wine Companion

2015 Wallace, 90 Points

A powerful rendition of the blend as befits Glaetzer and the Barossa Valley alike. It seems that shiraz by some distance the major part of the blend, black fruits overplaying the red and suppressing any confection.

Wine Current

2015 Wallace, 4.5 Stars

Lifted aromas of earthy notes mingle with piquant spice, black licorice and perfumed floral notes precede a tang-laden stream of palate-bathing flavour with bright red berry, mixed spice and wisps of dark bittersweet chocolate to the fore. It's medium weight with good texture, persistent purity of fruit and sports a lengthy, lip-smacking aftertaste. Drinking well now, it pairs well with grilled rib-eye and Portobello mushrooms.

2015 Wallace

South Australian winemaking royalty Ben Glaetzer has maintained the family status here with remarkable consistency and precision. This is a top-flight Barossa Valley blend, with predominant partner shiraz providing exceptional peppery flavours that are enhanced by grenache's savoury input.

Tony Love – The Advertiser

2015 Wallace

There's an unflinching sniff of rustic Barossan red here – the aromas all set into an ironstone/blacksmith's garage like background, the fruit (spiced purple plums) rising later in proceedings as you taste, sip, taste again – on and on and on. It's that kind of wine. Why? Because it's not over-rich nor muscly, which allows the juice to swirl and please, and while it suggest heavyweight power it finishes smoothly with an inner warmth.
