

2020 Glaetzer Anaperenna

PRESS REVIEWS

Robert Parker Wine Advocate

2020 Anaperenna, 96 Points

The 2020 Anaperenna Shiraz-Cabernet Sauvignon pours an iridescent magenta in the glass. On the nose, there are layers of sweet vanilla oak, raspberries at the height of the season, fresh licorice root, star anise, fresh cut fennel and cracked black peppercorns. In the mouth, the wine is silky, full-bodied and unfurling – the quality of the fruit sourcing shines through as the flavors linger on the finish. There's a brightness and energy here that I have found in many of the 2020 reds from Barossa (which is interesting, given the continuation of low yields and drought conditions, suggesting perhaps clever, adaptive viticulture at the fore). There's a friskiness that suggests a decant would be highly advisable. This is a ripper of a wine.

Erin Larkin, April 2023 Week 1, The Wine Advocate, USA, www.robertparker.com

Huon Hooke

2020 Anaperenna

Impressively deep, dark, bright and bold purple colour; the bouquet is inky, concentrated and dense, the cassis and blackberry characters young and primary, the palate rich and fleshy, concentrated and yet supple and rounded enough to be enjoyable to drink right now. Deep, bold, concentrated: a wine of long-term potential.

Huon Hooke, The Real Review, 20th October 2022, Australia www.therealreview.com

James Suckling

2020 Anaperenna, 93 Points

Aromas of red and black cherry, leather, bark and black licorice. Full-bodied with silky tannins. Rich and opulent on the palate, with very good concentration and intensity. Well structured and needs a bit more time to come together. Best after 2024.

James Suckling, 5th October 2022 www.jamesuckling.com

James Halliday, Australian Wine Companion

2020 Anaperenna, 95 Points

A polished, glossy rendition of the great Australian blend from Ben Glaetzer. Wonderfully pure blackberry and plum fruits with a touch of blueberry lift, melding with deep spice, licorice, Old Jamaica chocolate and earth. Cedary oak flows in on the palate before retreating back into the fruit which shines brightly throughout. Tannins are gravelly and long and there is a sense of freshness to its form. Self assured and wonderfully pure drinking.

Published in James Halliday Australian Wine Companion 2023 Edition, 16th August 2022, Australia www.winecompanion.com

2020 Glaetzer Anaperenna

PRESS REVIEWS

The Great Australian Red

2020 Anaperenna, awarded Silver Medal

The Great Australian Red Competition, Matthew Jukes & Tyson Stelzer, August 2022, United Kingdom