The Vintage Journal

2022 Wallace – 93 points

Medium-deep crimson. Dark plum, redcurrant black olive tapenade aromas and flavours with cedar spice notes. Lovely inky density, fine chalky tannins and fresh juicy acidity. Early drinking style. Drink now-soon.

Angus Hughson

2022 Wallace – 93 points

The crowd-pleasing 2022 Shiraz Grenache Wallace delivers both power and complexity as it ripples with dark earth, blackberry and dark cherry aromas lifted by a savory touch of roasted meat. The 2022 marks a high point for this label. There is also impressive density, depth and volume of flavor, which builds over the strong finish. Significant tannins ensure this will age well over the medium term.

The Real Review

2022 Wallace – 89 points

Bright and youthful in appearance. Aromas of plum, jubey dark fruits, spice and earth. Straightforward, juicy, chewy, firm and mouth-filling. Decent complexity and length.

Sam Kim

2022 Wallace – 93 points

Sweetly fruited and perfumed, the bouquet shows Black Doris plum, cherry, clove, and assorted nut aromas with a hint of vanilla complexity. It's succulent and supple in the mouth with silky texture and finely infused tannins, finishing lingering and flavoursome. At its best: now to 2032. $23.00. ### Ray Jordan

2022 Wallace – 93 points

Some pretty serious Barossa fruit has gone into this terrific value for money high quality blend. Shiraz is between 50 and 80 years old, and the Grenache up to 100. It's produced a wine of immense vibrancy and liveliness, with bright red fruit, lifted florals and a trace of peppery energy seamlessly integrated with fine tannin and oak support. A wine of purity and finesse, with just a hint of vanillin oak to finish.

James Suckling

2022 Wallace, 92 Points

A well-balanced, tactile and vivid blend of shiraz and grenache with blueberries, plums, cassis, licorice and warm spices. Medium-bodied with creamy tannins and texture. Well rounded, fruit driven and mellow with a delicious, polished finish. Drink Now.

Robert Parker Wine Advocate

The 2022 Wallace Shiraz Grenache is a bright, spicy little thing, with black fruit and exotic spice in profusion. The acid and tannins clash a little through the finish, listing the wine towards graphite, aniseed, clove, etc., but otherwise, this is straightforward and pleasing.
